

Automated Student Birthday Scraper System

This project was initiated to strengthen the school community and reduce administrative workload by automating daily student birthday wishes. I developed a robust Python script responsible for collecting, parsing, and structuring data from thousands of student records. The script processes raw information (name, class, date of birth) into a clean, queryable dataset.

This structured data is then consumed by the website's frontend, which includes a component I built to dynamically render the names of students celebrating their birthday each day. The system runs automatically, eliminating the need for manual daily updates and ensuring that every student is recognized on their special day. This project demonstrates practical skills in data automation, backend scripting, and frontend integration to solve a real-world problem.

Note: The data displayed on this page is a static sample for demonstration purposes. To see the fully functional, live version that automatically updates every day, please visit the dedicated project page: <https://pranav-sharma.pages.dev/birthday>

Thank You
